The young woman is Mrs. Nora Relliy, thirty-four years old, of No. 257 West Twenty-eighth screet. She was discharged from Bellevue Hospital yearing the stories of wrecked homes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—In the hope that hearing the stories of wrecked homes might change their decision to be married so young. John W. Mills took his son, William, nineteen years old, and Nora Farrell, seventeen year, the boy's sweetheart, into Judge Newcomer's court yesterday to hear the robs and coors resulting from hasty marriages. For two hours the two listened but the sories falled to have any effect.

"I don't want to want," replied Nora. Those stories don't you?" Billy said to his sweetheart.

"I don't want to want," replied Nora. The Judge smiled and the ceremony followed.

"I had no objection to their being married, but I wanted them to look doesdy before two learned, into Judge Newcomer.

The Season's Most Important Message to New York Women Read Details and Attend This Dress Sale Surprise of the Year, To-Morrow

Beautiful Dresses Charmeuse Distinctive Creations from One of New York's Most Prominent Dressmakers. Made to Retail at $25.00, and shown in exclusive shops at even more; in this sale at

This is indeed electrifying news! No sale of this season has been of greater general interest to women who desire to purchase several dainty Dresses for present and Winter wear, and we doubt if such values will be offered again in many weeks, if at all this season.

You will remember a year ago we held a similar sale. We went to the same maker, told him we must eclipse this sale in every way, and we certainly have in every detail.

Every season that concern's head designer goes abroad and brings back the smartest models of the famous style masters of Paris. These are reproduced exactly or with elever modifications, and the result is the finest assemblage of beautiful Dresses that it has ever been our privilege to present

We wish to invite your particular attention to the painstaking manner in which these garments are made and finished. Each dress is draped on a form by an expert dressmaker, all lined, and instead of hooks and eyes the latest patented fasteners are used.

A wealth of the season's prettiest styles. In fact everything that has the sanction of the authorities of correct fashion has been done to make these Dresses marvels of beauty.

These dresses are the very models the smartest New York women will wear for all social occasions—tea, club meetings, theatres, promenades, calling, etc. All sizes from 34 to 44. Remember, to-morrow, at Simpson Crawford's, the Dress Sale that will surely captivate New York and will be talked about for months.
